Video Description

Behind the speeches, flags, and promises of governments lies a hidden story of secret meetings that shaped the world we live in today. From the closed-door negotiations on Jekyll Island that created the Federal Reserve, to the hushed debates at Bretton Woods that established the IMF and World Bank, to the covert deals that gave birth to the petrodollar system—our modern global economy was designed in secrecy.

This video uncovers how small groups of bankers, politicians, and economic thinkers met in private to craft the rules of money, trade, and finance that still govern billions of lives today. It reveals how the dollar became king, why international institutions hold so much power, and how backroom decisions continue to define the world economy.

The global financial system did not simply evolve—it was engineered. And the true story of those secret meetings shows just how much of our economic future was decided without us ever knowing.
